Organizational Overview

The Louisiana Center for Children's Rights values diversity and is an equal opportunity /affirmative action employer. Black people, Indigenous people, people of color, people who are LGBT, people with disabilities, and those directly impacted by the justice system are encouraged to apply.

The Louisiana Center for Children's Rights (LCCR) fights to keep children out of the justice system so that they can thrive in their homes and communities. We represent both individual children in their court cases and address the systemic issues that trap marginalized youth in the justice system.

Juvenile Defense: As the juvenile public defender in New Orleans, our Children's Defense Team represents over 90% of children in the city who come into contact with the juvenile justice system. We provide each child with a holistic team – a lawyer, social worker, investigator, and youth advocate – to address both the causes and consequences of an arrest.

Juvenile Life Without Parole: We represent the majority of Louisianans who are facing or serving life without parole sentences for crimes they committed as children, which the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled unconstitutional in all but the rarest cases. We know that children can and do change for the better, so we fight for their second chance.

State and Local Advocacy: We advocate for policies that reduce the number of children in the justice system and provide better alternatives to arrest and incarceration. For the kids who do enter the system, we support policies that keep them safe, protect their rights, and get them home as soon as possible.
